

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

JAMES COTTLE, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

PLAID INC.,

Defendant.

Case No. 20-cv-03056-DMR

ORDER ON MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY APPROVAL OF A CLASS ACTION SETTLEMENT

Re: Dkt. No. 137

This action consists of five separately-filed putative class actions in which 11 named plaintiffs allege that Defendant Plaid Inc. (“Plaid”) uses consumers’ banking login credentials to harvest and sell detailed financial data without their consent. The court consolidated the matters in July 2020. Plaintiffs now seek preliminary approval of a class action settlement. [Docket No. 137.] The court held a hearing on September 30, 2021 and ordered the parties to submit supplemental evidence in support of the motion, which they timely filed. [Docket Nos. 146-149.] For the following reasons, preliminary approval is granted.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Factual Allegations and Procedural History

Plaid is a tech startup in the financial technology or “fintech” industry. It provides bank “linking” and verification services for fintech apps that consumers use to send and receive money from their financial accounts, such as Venmo, Coinbase, Cash App, and Stripe. [Docket No. 61 (Consolidated Amended Class Action Complaint, “CFAC”) ¶¶ 2, 32.] Plaintiffs are Caroline Anderson, James Cottle, Rachel Curtis, David Evans, Logan Mitchell, Alexis Mullen, Jordan Sacks, Frederick Schoeneman, Gabriel Sotelo, Jeffrey Umali, and Nicholas Yeomelakis. They are consumers in five states and the District of Columbia who linked their bank accounts to fintech apps using Plaid’s software. CFAC ¶ 99. Plaintiffs allege that in connection with the linking and

1 verification process, Plaid misled them and violated their privacy and the privacy of the putative
 2 class members by obtaining data from their financial accounts without authorization and by 3 obtaining their bank login information through its user interface, known as “Plaid Link.”
 4 According to Plaintiffs, Plaid designed the login screens in its interface to give them the look and 5 feel of login screens used by individual financial institutions. However, Plaintiffs allege, Plaid
 6 fails to disclose to its users that they are not actually interfacing with their bank. Id. at ¶¶ 37-40.
 7 Plaintiffs further allege that by using the accumulated consumer bank login information, Plaid has 8 collected a significant amount of consumer banking data that it routinely sells to third parties. Id.
 9 at ¶¶ 48, 59-60.

10 Plaintiffs filed their original complaints in five separate lawsuits in May, June, and July 11 2020. The court related the cases and subsequently consolidated them in one action, No. 20-cv-
 12 3056, In re Plaid Inc. Privacy Litigation, and granted the parties’ request to appoint Interim Co-
 13 Lead Counsel and a Steering Committee. [Docket No. 57.] Pursuant to court order, Plaintiffs 14 filed the CFAC on August 5, 2020. [Docket No. 61.]

15 Plaid moved to dismiss the CFAC, and the court granted the motion in part and denied it in 16 part on April 30, 2021. Cottle v. Plaid Inc., No. 20-CV-03056-DMR, ---F. Supp. 3d---, 2021 WL
 17 1721177 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 30, 2021). In relevant part, the court dismissed with prejudice Plaintiffs’ 18 claim for declaratory and injunctive relief as well as four statutory claims. Id. at *23. The 19 remaining claims are: 1) invasion of privacy—intrusion into private affairs; 2) unjust enrichment 20 (quasi-contract claim for restitution and disgorgement); 3) violation of Article I, Section I of the 21 California Constitution; 4) violation of the California Anti-Phishing Act of 2005 (“CAPA”), 22 California Business & Professions Code section 22948 et seq.; and 5) violation of California Civil 23 Code sections 1709 and 1710.

24 Plaintiffs bring the first two claims on behalf of themselves and the following “Nationwide 25 Class”:

26 All natural persons in the United States whose accounts at a financial 27 institution were accessed by Plaid using login credentials obtained 28 through Plaid’s software incorporated in a mobile or web-based fintech app that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers, including without limitation users of Venmo,

Square's Cash App, Coinbase, and Strike, from January 1, 2013 to the present.

Id. at ¶ 247. In addition, Plaintiffs Cottle, Evans, Mitchell, Schoeneman, Sotelo, and Umali bring the third through fifth claims on behalf of themselves and the following "California class":

All natural persons in California whose accounts at a financial institution were accessed by Plaid using login credentials obtained through Plaid's software incorporated in a mobile or web-based fintech app that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers, including without limitation users of Venmo, Square's Cash App, Coinbase, and Strike, from January 1, 2013 to the present.

Id. at ¶ 248.

B. Litigation History

Plaintiffs' counsel represent that they undertook several months of investigation into Plaid's business practices prior to filing the original complaint in this action. [Docket No. 138 (Kennedy Decl., Aug. 5, 2021) ¶ 4.] After filing the CFAC, Plaintiffs conducted discovery, including third-party discovery to banks. Id. at ¶ 7.

The parties participated in private mediation before the Hon. Jay Gandhi (ret.) on February 16, 2021. In preparation for the mediation, the parties submitted detailed mediation briefs and participated in a technology tutorial session with Judge Gandhi. Plaintiffs also retained and worked with a financial analyst. Id. at ¶ 10. The parties did not reach a settlement agreement at the first mediation but continued to negotiate with Judge Gandhi's assistance. Id. at ¶¶ 11-12. The parties participated in a second mediation session before Judge Gandhi on April 13, 2021. Following the second mediation, the parties continued their discussions. On June 7, 2021, Judge Gandhi made a mediator's proposal for a class-wide settlement, which the parties accepted on June 11, 2021. Id. at ¶¶ 13-14. They executed a long-form settlement agreement on July 30, 2021. Id. at ¶ 14, Ex. A (the "Settlement Agreement").

II. TERMS OF THE SETTLEMENT

A. Proposed Class

The proposed class consists of "all natural persons who reside in the United States and who own or owned one or more Financial Accounts at the time such persons resided in the United States from January 1, 2013 to the date preliminary approval of the settlement is granted.” Settlement Agreement ¶ 19. “Financial Account” is defined as “a financial institution account (1) that Plaid accessed using the user’s login credentials and connected to a mobile or web-based fintech application that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers or (2) for which a user provided financial account login credentials to Plaid through Plaid Link.” Id. at ¶ 32. The term “Financial Account does not include an account that was connected, or for which credentials were provided, exclusively through an OAuth Process or Managed OAuth Process.”<sup>1</sup> Id.

Plaid does not dispute that the proposed class meets the requirements for class certification under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(a) and 23(b)(2) for settlement purposes only. Mot. 10-11.

B. Payment Terms

Plaid agrees to pay $58 million (the “Settlement Amount”) to create a non-reversionary cash Settlement Fund for the benefit of Class Members. Settlement Agreement ¶¶ 50, 71. The following will be deducted from the Settlement Amount: 1) any amounts approved by the court for cost and fee awards and service awards; 2) escrow account tax liabilities and tax expenses; 3) costs of providing notice under the Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”), 28 U.S.C. § 1715; and 4) costs charged by the Settlement Administrator, including costs for disseminating notice to the Class Members, processing claim forms, and performing services specified in the Settlement Agreement. Id. at ¶ 78(a). The remainder following those deductions constitutes the “Net Settlement Fund” from which individual Class Members will be paid. Id. at ¶ 78(a), (b).

The Net Settlement Fund will be distributed to Class Members via a claims-made pro rata payment. Id. at ¶ 78(b). Specifically, the Settlement Administrator will distribute a monetary payment to each Class Member who submits an “Approved Claim,” defined as a claim form that is <sup>1</sup> The Settlement Agreement defines “OAuth Process” to mean “a process through which Plaid redirects an end user to the financial institution’s domain to enter their login credentials and does not obtain login credentials for the end user.” Settlement Agreement ¶ 38. A “Managed OAuth Process” is “a process through which Plaid obtains login credentials in order to secure an access token pursuant to a formal agreement with the applicable financial institution and does not store those login credentials.” Id. at ¶ 33.

1 timely, complete, signed, and verified by the Settlement Administrator (“Authorized Claimants”).
 2 The payment will be via physical check, Automated Clearing House (“ACH”) transfer, or deposit
 3 to a designated PayPal or Venmo account. Id. at ¶¶ 78(b)(iii), 15. Such payments will be 4 distributed within 60 days after the Effective Date.<sup>2</sup> Id. at ¶ 78(b).

5 Authorized Claimants who receive a physical check will have 90 days after the date of 6 issuance to cash the check.<sup>3</sup> Funds from checks that are not cashed within the 90-day period,
 7 funds from checks returned as undeliverable, and funds from failed ACH, PayPal, or Venmo
 8 transfers shall revert to the Settlement Fund. Id. at ¶ 78(b)(iv). Any such unclaimed funds will go 9 through a second distribution to Authorized Claimants. In the event that the distribution “is not 10 economically feasible,” unclaimed funds will be distributed to cy pres recipients. Id. at ¶¶ 11 78(b)(iv), 84. Plaintiffs propose that funds be distributed to two cy pres recipients: 1) Privacy 12 Rights Clearinghouse, which is “a nonprofit organization protecting privacy for all by 13 empowering individuals and advocating for positive change,’ which ‘strive[s] to provide clarity on 14 complex topics by publishing extensive educational materials,” and 2) Consumer Reports, which 15 “evaluat[es] the privacy implications of digital technologies to provide consumers with 16 information about security and privacy risks and further corporate accountability,” and “design[s]
 17 and implement[s] tests to rate technology products, services, and platforms on their collection, use, 18 and protection of consumer data, and to educate and empower consumers.” Mot. 4-5. According 19 to Plaintiffs, the work of these two organizations “has the requisite nexus to this action, the goals 20 of the underlying statutes and claims, and the interests of this Class.” Id. at 4 (citing Lane v.
 21 Facebook, 696 F. 3d 811, 819-20 (9th Cir. 2012)).

 24 <sup>2</sup> The Settlement Agreement defines “Effective Date” as “the first date after which the following
 25 events and conditions have occurred: (a) the Court has entered a Final Judgment; and (b) the Final 26 Judgment has become final in that the time for appeal or writ has expired or, if any appeal and/or 27 petition for review is taken and the settlement is affirmed, the time period during which further 28 petition for hearing, appeal, or writ of certiorari can be taken has expired. If the Final Judgment is set aside, materially modified, or overturned by the Court or on appeal, and is not fully reinstated on further appeal, the judgment shall not be a Final Judgment.” Settlement Agreement ¶ 26.

<sup>3</sup> At the hearing on preliminary approval, Plaintiffs confirmed that the face of each check will state that it must be cashed within 90 days.

C. Injunctive Relief

Plaid agrees to implement a number of business practice changes that Plaintiffs contend will “remediate alleged privacy violations, improve user control over their private login information and financial data, and safeguard their privacy going forward.” Mot. 5. Where any of the following provisions contemplate a change to Plaid’s existing practice, Plaid will implement the change within 180 days from the Effective Date and will continue for a period of three years. Where a provision relates to the continuation of an existing practice, the commitment will continue for three years from the Effective Date. Settlement Agreement ¶¶ 64-65.

1. Data Deletion

Plaid will delete data from its systems that was retrieved as part of Plaid’s “Transactions” product for users that Plaid can reasonably determine did not connect an account to an application that requested Transactions data. Such data can include information about financial account activity, such as the amount, time, and place of deposits, withdrawals, transfers, or purchases. Settlement Agreement ¶ 63; Mot. 5. Plaid will also delete data from its systems for users for whom Plaid is aware that it no longer has valid means that can be used to authenticate with the financial institution. Settlement Agreement ¶ 63. For example, if Plaid determines that the password it obtained for a particular bank account has changed, or that the account has been closed, Plaid will delete the associated account data from its systems. Mot. 5.

2. Plaid Portal Disclosure

The class notice will prominently disclose that users can create a Plaid Portal account, explain the user controls available through Plaid Portal, and provide the URL for Plaid Portal. Settlement Agreement ¶ 58. Plaid will ensure that there is “[a] prominent reference to Plaid Portal (currently available at my.plaid.com) on its website homepage, including a link to the Plaid Portal and a plain-language description of the user controls available on Plaid Portal.” Id. at ¶ 54(a). According to Plaintiffs, a Plaid Portal account allows users to “view and manage the connections that have been made between apps and their financial accounts using Plaid” and to “delete their financial data stored in Plaid’s systems.” Mot. 6. Plaid also agrees to “take reasonable commercial efforts to send periodic email reminders to Plaid Portal account holders” describing the controls available in Plaid Portal. Settlement Agreement ¶ 59.

3. Disclosures at the Time of Account Connection

Plaid will ensure that its standard Plaid Link flow includes the following:

- The consent pane, where users agree to Plaid’s End User Privacy Policy (“EUPP”) and explains that Plaid will connect their application to their financial institution, will (1) refer expressly to Plaid and explain that Plaid is used to link the user’s accounts; (2) include a conspicuous link to Plaid’s EUPP; and (3) require the user to agree to Plaid’s EUPP by taking clear affirmative action.
- The credentials pane, which is the pane where users enter their financial account username and password, will explain that the user’s credentials are being “provided to Plaid.”
- The background color of the credential pane will not utilize the color scheme associated with a specific financial institution for that financial institution.

Settlement Agreement ¶ 56.

4. Data Minimization

Plaid will minimize the data it stores from users’ financial accounts as follows: with respect to data retrieved from users’ financial accounts, Plaid will only store the categories of data for the Plaid product(s) that the user’s application specifically requests from Plaid or that are necessary for Plaid to offer its services, unless the user has expressly consented to the retrieval of additional data fields. Plaid will use its best efforts to continue to inform the applications that use Plaid about its “/item/remove endpoint,” “which terminates the customer’s access to data, and may lead to data deletion (if such data is not actively used by another customer).” Id. at ¶¶ 60-62.

5. Enhancing Disclosures

Plaid will enhance its EUPP to provide more detailed information about Plaid’s data collection, storage, use, sharing, and deletion practices. The enhanced EUPP will:

- Provide more detail about the categories of personal information Plaid collects from users’ financial accounts for each Plaid generally available product, including a plain-language list of the category or categories of personal information Plaid collects and a plain-language statement of the general reasons it is collected.

- Provide more detail about how Plaid uses data, including by providing, for each category of personal information that Plaid collects about users, the categories of sources of the personal information; uses for which Plaid collects the information; and the categories of parties with whom Plaid shares personal information, if any.
- Provide a plain-language explanation of Plaid’s deletion and retention practices related to personal information collected from users’ financial accounts.
- Provide a dedicated section explaining in plain-language terms the privacy controls Plaid has made available to users, including instructions that explain how to navigate to the Data Protection Rights section of the EUPP and how users can exercise those rights.

Settlement Agreement ¶ 53.

D. Notice and Settlement Administration Costs

All settlement notice and administrative costs will be paid from the Settlement Fund, except that in the event such costs exceed approximately $5.5 million (which the parties state they do not presently anticipate), Plaid will pay for up to $500,000 of such additional administrative costs directly to the third-party administrator. Settlement Agreement ¶¶ 17 n.2, 78(a), 96. The proposed third-party administrator, Angeion Group LLC (“Angeion”) explains that the estimated cost of sending notice to Class Members via email and US Mail varies based on the claims rate and the percentage of emailed notices that are unable to be delivered. [Docket No. 149 (2d Weisbrot Decl., Oct. 7, 2021) ¶ 10.]

The parties agree to provide notice of the settlement to Class Members in accordance with a notice program administered by Angeion. Settlement Agreement ¶ 94; Kennedy Decl. ¶¶ 27-28. The proposed notice program is as follows: Plaid will provide Angeion with approximately 62 million unique email addresses for certain Class Members and mailing addresses for certain other Class Members. [Docket Nos. 139 (Weisbrot Decl., Aug. 5, 2021) ¶ 14; 2d Weisbrot Decl. ¶ 4.] Angeion will send the notice via email to all potential Class Members for whom email addresses are provided. Prior to distributing email notice, Angeion will engage in an email updating process

1 to help ensure the accuracy of recipient email addresses. Weisbrot Decl. ¶¶ 16, 18. After 2 approximately 24-72 hours, Angeion will cause a second round of email noticing to any email
3 addresses that were identified as “soft bounces and not delivered.” Id. at ¶ 19.

4 For all Class Members for whom a mailing address is provided instead of an email address,
5 Angeion will update the mailing address information utilizing a national database. Id. at ¶ 23.
6 Angeion will then send a postcard notice to these Class Members. Notices returned with a 7 forwarding address will be re-mailed to the new address provided by the United States Postal 8 Service, and those notices returned without forwarding addresses will be subjected to an address 9 verification search. Notices will be re-mailed to any new addresses identified in that process. Id.
10 at ¶¶ 24-26.

11 Angeion will purchase digital advertisements, provide notice on social media, run a paid 12 search campaign, and sponsor class action website listings. Id. at ¶¶ 27-41. Additionally,
13 Angeion will create a case-specific website where Class Members can view general information 14 about the settlement, review relevant documents, and view deadlines pertinent to the settlement.
15 Id. at ¶ 43.

16 The Notice that will be emailed and mailed to Class members includes a description of the 17 lawsuit, including an overview of the allegations; a description of the class definition; and a 18 summary of the settlement amount and injunctive relief. It informs Class Members that they must 19 submit a Claim Form in order to receive a payment and provides information about how to do so,
20 including information about the settlement website. Weisbrot Decl. ¶¶ 16, 22, Exs. B, C 21 (Proposed Notice). It also informs Class Members of their option to be excluded from the 22 settlement and states that they may object to the settlement, and notifies Class Members that they 23 may attend the final approval hearing on a date to be determined by the court. Id.

24 In a supplemental declaration, Angeion President Steven Weisbrot explains that Plaid
25 currently estimates that it has approximately 62 million unique email addresses for certain Class
26 Members and approximately 62 million physical mailing addresses for certain Class Members. 2d 27 Weisbrot Decl. ¶ 4. There are approximately 277,000 Class Members with mailing addresses and 28 no email addresses. Id. at ¶ 9. The cost of sending notice to the Class Members as described

1 above, including emailing notice to all Class Members with unique email addresses and mailing
2 notice only to those Class Members with physical mailing addresses and no email addresses, is 3 between $2,487,187 and $4,057,341, depending on the claims rate. Id.<sup>4</sup>

4 E. Claim Form

5 In order to receive a monetary payment from the Settlement Fund, Class Members must 6 submit a Claim Form by the Claims Deadline, which will be no later than 90 days after the date
7 notice is substantially completed. Settlement Agreement ¶¶ 18, 35, 78(b), 80, Ex. A (Claim 8 Form). The Claim Form may be submitted online or by U.S. mail.

9 For online submissions, the Claim Form provides a space for the claimant to enter the 10 Notice ID and Confirmation Code listed on the personalized notice they received by mail or email.
11 It asks the claimant to enter their contact information and mailing address and to select a payment 12 option from three choices: PayPal, Venmo, or physical check mailed to the address provided on 13 the Claim Form. The claimant must then enter their digital signature and make the following 14 attestation under penalty of perjury:

15 By signing below and submitting this Claim Form, I hereby swear 16 under penalty of perjury that I am the person identified above and the 17 information provided in this Claim Form is true and correct, and that nobody has submitted another claim in connection with this Settlement on my behalf.

18 For online submissions by claimants who do not have a Notice ID and Confirmation Code, 19 the claimant must provide their contact information and mailing address and select one of the three 20 payment options described above. In addition, they must complete a section entitled, “Other 21 Information.” This section states the following:

22 In this Settlement, you may be a Class Member if you own or owned 23 an account at a financial institution that was connected to a mobile or web-based payments app or service through Plaid and/or for which

25 <sup>4</sup> According to the proposed administrator, the estimated cost of sending notice to all Class
26 Members via U.S. Mail is between $27,956,668 and $29,526,822, depending on the claims rate.
27 2d Weisbrot Decl. ¶¶ 5-8. The estimated cost of sending email notice to all Class Members with 28 email addresses, mail notice to Class Members with mailing addresses only, and mail notice to Class Members to whom email notices cannot be delivered is between $3,585,252 and $6,229,000, depending on the claims rate and the percentage of emailed notices that cannot be delivered. Id. at account credentials were provided through Plaid Link, between January 1, 2013 and [date of preliminary approval], as further explained and defined in the Class notice materials, which you should review carefully.

If, based on the information provided in the Class notice materials, you believe you are a Class Member, please provide the following information about at least one, and up to eight, of the connections between your financial account(s) and mobile or web-based app(s) or service(s). Please include only one financial institution, app or service, per row:

A chart appears under the information above that provides space to list up to eight financial institutions where the individual owns or owned a financial account; the name of the app or service the individual connected to the financial institution; and the approximate date of the connection. The claimant must then make the attestation described above by entering their digital signature.

Claimants may also submit paper Claim Forms by mail. The paper Claim Forms ask the claimant to provide the same information set forth above; that is, if the claimant has a Notice ID, the Claim Form asks for their contact information, mailing address, and email address, as well as selection of one of the three payment options. If the claimant selects PayPal or Venmo, they must enter the email address and/or mobile number associated with the selected account. The claimant must also sign and date the form, making the attestation set forth above under penalty of perjury. If the claimant seeking to submit a paper Claim Form does not have a Notice ID, the claimant must provide their contact information, mailing address, email address, and selection of one of the three payment options. The claimant must also complete the “Other Information” section described above. The paper Claim Forms state the postmark deadline in the upper left corner of the first page.

F. Release

Plaintiffs and the Class Members agree to release all “Released Claims” against the “Released Parties” as of the Effective Date. Settlement Agreement ¶ 88. The Settlement Agreement defines “Released Claims” as follows:

[A]ny and all actions, causes of action, claims, demands, liabilities, obligations, damages (including, without limitation, punitive, exemplary and multiple damages), penalties, sanctions, losses, debts, contracts, agreements, attorneys’ fees, costs, expenses, and rights of any nature and description whatsoever, whether based on federal, state, or local statutes, common law, regulations, rules or any other law of the United States or foreign jurisdiction, known or unknown, fixed or contingent, suspected or unsuspected, in law or in equity, arising from or related to allegations in the Action that were asserted or could have been asserted in the Action by the Releasing Parties against the Released Parties.

Id. at ¶ 45. “Released Parties” means “Plaid and any and all of its present or former predecessors, successors, assigns, parents, subsidiaries, affiliates, directors, officers, employees, agents, representatives, and attorneys, and any and all of the parents’, subsidiaries’, and affiliates’ present and former predecessors, successors, assigns, directors, officers, employees, agents, representatives, and attorneys.” Id. at ¶ 46.

G. Appointment of Class Counsel, Attorneys’ Fees, and Incentive Awards

Pursuant to the settlement agreement, “Class Counsel” means Christopher Cormier, Burns Charest LLP; Shawn Kennedy, Herrera Kennedy LLP; and Rachel Geman, Lieff, Cabraser, Heimann & Bernstein, LLP. Settlement Agreement ¶ 20. Class Counsel will submit a motion for approval of an award of attorneys’ fees and costs in an amount not to exceed 25% of the Settlement Fund, plus reimbursement of actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred by class counsel and Plaintiffs’ counsel in the action. Id. at ¶ 108. The motion will be filed at least 35 days in advance of the objection deadline. Id.

Additionally, the Named Plaintiffs may apply for a service award, each of which shall not exceed $5,000, for their services as class representatives. Id. at ¶ 112.

III. DISCUSSION

In the Ninth Circuit, there is a “strong judicial policy that favors settlements” of class actions. Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 955 F.2d 1268, 1276 (9th Cir. 1992). Nonetheless, “Rule 23(e) imposes on district courts an independent obligation to ensure that any class settlement is ‘fair, reasonable, and adequate,’ accounting for the interests of absent class members.” Briseño v. Henderson, 998 F.3d 1014, 1022 (9th Cir. 2021) (quoting Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2)).

Where the “parties reach a settlement agreement prior to class certification, courts must peruse the proposed compromise to ratify both the propriety of the certification and the fairness of the settlement.” Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 952 (9th Cir. 2003). First, the court “must assess whether a class exists,” id., and must pay “heightened” attention to Rule 23’s requirements. Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620 (1997). The Supreme Court has explained that “[s]uch attention is of vital importance, for a court asked to certify a settlement class will lack the opportunity, present when a case is litigated, to adjust the class, informed by the proceedings as they unfold.” Id. (citation omitted). Second, the court must consider whether the proposed settlement “is fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable,” Staton, 327 F.3d at 952, and must ensure that the settlement did not result from collusion among the parties. In re Bluetooth Headset Prods. Liab. Litig., 654 F.3d 935, 947 (9th Cir. 2011) (quotation marks and citation omitted).

A. Conditional Certification of the Settlement Class

“The criteria for class certification are applied differently in litigation classes and settlement classes. In deciding whether to certify a litigation class, a district court must be concerned with manageability at trial. However, such manageability is not a concern in certifying a settlement class where, by definition, there will be no trial.” In re Hyundai & Kia Fuel Econ. Litig., 926 F.3d 539, 556-57 (9th Cir. 2019). As noted above, “in deciding whether to certify a settlement class, a district court must give heightened attention to the definition of the class or subclasses. Id. (citing Amchem, 521 U.S. at 620). “[T]he aspects of Rule 23(a) and (b) that are important to certifying a settlement class are those designed to protect absentees by blocking unwarranted or overbroad class definitions. The focus is on whether a proposed class has sufficient unity so that absent members can fairly be bound by decisions of class representatives.” Id. at 558 (quotation marks omitted) (quoting Amchem, 521 U.S. at 621).

1. Rule 23(a)

Rule 23(a) provides that a class action is proper only if four requirements are met: (1) numerosity, (2) commonality, (3) typicality, and (4) adequacy of representation. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1)-(4).

a. Numerosity

Rule 23(a)(1) requires the class to be “so numerous that joinder of all parties is impracticable.” In re Volkswagen “Clean Diesel” Mktg., Sales Pracs., & Prods. Liab. Litig., No.

2672 CRB (JSC), 2017 WL 672820, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2017) (quoting Rule 23(a)(1)). “As a general matter, courts have found that numerosity is satisfied when class size exceeds 40 members, but not satisfied when membership dips below 21.” Slaven v. BP Am., Inc., 190 F.R.D. 649, 654 (C.D. Cal 2000).

Here, the proposed class includes approximately 98 million individuals. Kennedy Decl. ¶ 24. Class Counsel derived this figure from current data provided by Plaid and “assumptions from an internal analysis performed by Plaid of its data in 2020.” Id. Numerosity is satisfied.

b. Commonality

Rule 23(a)(2) requires that there be “questions of law or fact common to the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2). The common question “must be of such a nature that it is capable of classwide resolution-which means that determination of its truth or falsity will resolve an issue that is central to the validity of each one of the claims in one stroke.” Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 350 (2011).

Here, there are a number of key common questions of law and fact arising out of Plaid’s practices. These include whether Plaid invaded Plaintiffs’ and the Class Members’ reasonable expectations of privacy, whether Plaid omitted or concealed material facts from Plaintiffs and the Class Members, whether Plaid’s privacy policy disclosed Plaid’s conduct and whether Plaid gave effective notice of its policy, and whether Plaid obtained Plaintiffs’ and the Class Members’ consent to obtain, store, and use their banking credentials and private financial information. The commonality requirement is satisfied.

c. Typicality

Under Rule 23(a)(3), the claims of the representative parties must be “typical of the claims . . . of the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3). “Typicality ‘assure[s] that the interest of the named representative aligns with the interests of the class.’” Volkswagen, 2017 WL 672820, at *7.

Typicality is satisfied here. Plaintiffs’ claims stem from the same course of conduct and pattern of alleged wrongdoing as the claims of the Class Members; that is, that Plaid obtained their confidential login information by means of an interface that Plaintiffs allege improperly mimicked the look and feel of bank login screens, and that Plaid collected certain financial data without

1 permission. Plaintiffs' claims are typical because they were subjected to the same conduct as the 2 other Class Members and suffered the same injury as a result.

3 d. Adequacy

4 Finally, Rule 23(a)(4) requires that the named plaintiffs, who seek to be class
5 representatives, "will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class." Fed. R. Civ. P.
6 23(a)(4). Courts engage in a dual inquiry to determine adequate representation and ask: "(1) do
7 the named plaintiffs and their counsel have any conflicts of interest with other class members and 8 (2) will the named plaintiffs and their counsel prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the 9 class?" Volkswagen, 2017 WL 672820, at *7.

10 Plaintiffs and Class Counsel are adequate representatives of the class. Plaintiffs were 11 allegedly injured by the same course of conduct common to all class members. Accordingly, their 12 interest in this litigation is aligned with that of the class. See Amchem, 521 U.S. at 594-95
13 ("Representatives must be part of the class and possess the same interest and suffer the same 14 injury as the class members."). As to Class Counsel, the attorneys with Burns Charest, LLP;
15 Herrera Purdy LLP; and Lieff, Cabraser, Heimann & Bernstein, LLP have significant experience
16 litigating, trying, and settling class actions, including consumer class actions, and the court
17 previously approved those three firms as Interim Co-Lead Counsel due to their qualifications, 18 experience, and commitment to the prosecution of this case. [See Docket No. 57.]

19 2. Rule 23(b)(3)

20 In addition to meeting the prerequisites of Rule 23(a), Plaintiffs must also meet one of the 21 three requirements of Rule 23(b) to certify the proposed class. Plaintiffs seek certification of the 22 class under Rule 23(b)(3), which states that a class action may be maintained if "the court finds 23 that the questions of law or fact common to the members of the class predominate over any 24 questions affecting only individual members, and that a class action is superior to other available 25 methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy." See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3).
26 Certification under Rule 23(b)(3) is appropriate "whenever the actual interests of the parties can be 27 served best by settling their differences in a single action." Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 28 1011, 1022 (9th Cir. 1998) (quoting 7A Charles Alan Wright, Arthur R. Miller & Mary Kay Kane, Federal Practice & Procedure § 1777 (2d ed. 1986)).

a. Predominance

Rule 23(b)(3) lists four non-exclusive factors “pertinent” to a predominance finding:

(A) the class members’ interests in individually controlling the prosecution or defense of separate actions;

(B) the extent and nature of any litigation concerning the controversy already begun by or against class members;

(C) the desirability or undesirability of concentrating the litigation of the claims in the particular forum; and

(D) the likely difficulties in managing a class action.

This “inquiry focuses on the relationship between the common and individual issues.” Vinole v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., 571 F.3d 935, 944 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). Specifically, the predominance requirement “tests whether proposed classes are sufficiently cohesive to warrant adjudication by representation.” Amchem, 521 U.S. at 594. The Ninth Circuit has noted that predominance is “readily met” in cases alleging consumer fraud. In re Hyundai, 926 F.3d at 559.

The common questions in this case, as set forth above, predominate over any individual issues that might exist. Plaintiffs allege that Plaid engaged in the same alleged illegal conduct with respect to all of the Class Members; that is, that Plaid misled Plaintiffs and the Class Members by obtaining the bank login information and data from their financial accounts without their permission, and then collected their private financial data and sold it to third parties. The claims asserted are brought under legal theories that apply to the class as a whole. The Class Members do not have a strong interest in bringing individual cases, as the maximum amount of recovery for an individual class member would likely be a fraction of the cost of bringing a lawsuit.

b. Superiority

The superiority requirement focuses on “whether maintenance of [the] litigation as a class action is efficient and whether it is fair.” Volkswagen, 2017 WL 672820, at *8. “[M]anageability of a class action for purposes of Rule 23(b)(3) is not an issue in the settlement context because the case will not be tried.” 2019 WL 536661, at *7.

Here, the proposed class consists of tens of millions of individuals. Where each class member bringing an individual suit “would be required to prove the same wrongful conduct to establish liability and thus would offer the same evidence, . . . classwide resolution of their claims is clearly favored over other means of adjudication.” Volkswagen, 2017 WL 672820, at *8. As discussed above, the range of issues is limited and individual cases addressing these issues would likely address the same wrongful conduct and use the same supporting evidence. The proposed class meets the superiority requirement.

In sum, Plaintiffs satisfy the Rule 23(a) and Rule 23(b)(3) requirements. Accordingly, provisional certification of the class for settlement purposes is warranted in this case.<sup>5</sup>

B. Preliminary Approval

The court examines two authorities in deciding whether to grant preliminary approval: (1) the fairness factors set forth in Churchill Village, L.L.C. v. General Electric, 361 F.3d 566, 575 (9th Cir. 2004); and (2) the factors in Rule 23(e)(2). “The relative degree of importance to be attached to any particular factor will depend upon . . . the unique facts and circumstances presented by each individual case.” Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm’n of City & Cty. of San Francisco, 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982). The court will also consider the Northern District of California’s Procedural Guidance for Class Action Settlements.<sup>6</sup>

1. Churchill Factors

A class action “may be settled, voluntarily dismissed, or compromised only with the court’s approval.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e). The “decision to approve or reject a settlement is committed to the sound discretion of the trial judge because he is exposed to the litigants, and their strategies, positions, and proof.” In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458 (9th Cir. 2000) (citation omitted). The district court’s role in reviewing proposed class action settlements is to determine whether a settlement is “fundamentally fair, adequate, and reasonable.” Id. The court is tasked with balancing a number of factors, including:

(1) the strength of the plaintiffs’ case; (2) the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation; (3) the risk of maintaining class action status throughout the trial; (4) the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement.

Churchill, 361 F.3d at 575.

a. Strength of Plaintiffs’ Case and Risks of Litigation

The first three factors are addressed together and require the court to assess the plaintiff’s “likelihood of success on the merits and the range of possible recovery” versus the risks of continued litigation and maintaining class action status through the duration of the trial. See Garner v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., No. 08-cv-1365-CW, 2010 WL 1687832, at *9 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 22, 2010). However, the court need not “reach any ultimate conclusions on the contested issues of fact and law which underlie the merits of the dispute, for it is the very uncertainty of outcome in litigation and avoidance of wasteful and expensive litigation that induce consensual settlements.” Officers for Justice, 688 F.2d at 625. These factors weigh in favor of approving settlement when the defendant has “plausible defenses that could have ultimately left class members with a reduced or non-existent recovery.” In re TracFone Unlimited Serv. Plan Litig., 112 F. Supp. 3d 993, 999 (N.D. Cal. 2015).

Following the court’s order dismissing certain claims in the CFAC with prejudice, the remaining claims are invasion of privacy—intrusion into private affairs; unjust enrichment; violation of Article I, Section I of the California Constitution; violation of CAPA; and violation of California Civil Code sections 1709 and 1710. Plaintiffs state that they are “confident in the strength of their claims and their ability to ultimately prevail at trial,” but concede that this litigation is inherently risky. Mot. 16. Plaintiffs allege a large class challenging conduct since 2013, implicating at least four different fintech apps and financial institutions. Plaintiffs maintain that there is a “core continuity of practices involving relatively simple issues,” id., but Plaid would almost certainly strenuously oppose class certification based on purported differences between apps and financial institutions, and differences in their practices and disclosures over time. Further, even if the class were certified, Plaid could still move to decertify the class at any time. See In re Netflix Privacy Litig., No. 5:11-CV-00379-EJD, 2013 WL 1120801, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 18, 2013) (“The notion that a district court could decertify a class at any time is one that weighs in favor of settlement.”).

There is also a risk to individual and class recovery based on the possibility of Plaid prevailing on the merits of Plaintiffs’ claims at any stage of the litigation, including on appeal. Plaid would likely raise multiple defenses to Plaintiffs’ claims in order to avoid liability. For example, Plaintiffs note that the CAPA is relatively untested. In its motion to dismiss, Plaid argued that the CAPA does not apply to Plaid as a matter of law, and that the intent of the statute was to criminalize phishing, which it claimed was not at issue in this case. [Docket No. 78 (Mot. to Dismiss) 33-34.] The court rejected this argument but noted that its own research yielded no cases analyzing the CAPA. Cottle, 2021 WL 1721177, at *20. Any failure by Plaintiffs to prevail on the CAPA claim, which is the only remaining claim authorizing statutory damages, would significantly impact the value of the class claims.

The court concludes that there is significant risk to individual and class recovery if the case were to proceed further in litigation. Weighing the potential benefits to the class against the risks of continued litigation, the court finds that first three Churchill factors support approving the settlement.

b. Amount Offered in Settlement

The fourth Churchill factor looks at the amount of recovery offered in settlement. When considering whether the amount offered in settlement is fair and adequate, “[i]t is the complete package taken as a whole, rather than the individual component parts, that must be examined for overall fairness.” Officers for Justice, 688 F.2d at 628. In addition, “it is well-settled law that a proposed settlement may be acceptable even though it amounts to only a fraction of the potential recovery that might be available to the class members at trial.” Nat’l Rural Telecommunications Coop. v. DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D. 523, 527 (C.D. Cal. 2004).

The Settlement Agreement provides that Plaid will pay $58 million to create a Settlement

1 Fund. From that fund will be deducted up to $5.5 million in costs for administration of the 2 settlement, including providing notice and processing claim forms, as well as up to $14.5 million
3 in attorneys' fees, plus additional costs and service awards. This would leave approximately $38
4 million to be distributed to the Class Members.

5 Angeion estimates the claims rate to be between 1% and 4% of the proposed class of 98
6 million individuals. 2d Weisbrot Decl. ¶¶ 4 n.3, 23. In order to determine this estimate, Angeion
7 compared the proposed settlement with ten recent settlements it administered in cases involving 8 "privacy concerns." The average claims rate in these cases was 3.87%; the median claims rate
9 was 3.51%. Id. at ¶¶ 16-17. It also compared the proposed settlement to five settlements it 10 administered in cases involving tens of millions of class members; the average claims rate for 11 these cases was 1.41% and the median claims rate was 2.31%. Id. at ¶¶ 18-19. Finally, Angeion
12 compared the proposed settlement to six settlements it administered that utilized "comparable 13 noticing efforts." The average claims rate for this set of cases was 3.73% and the median claims 14 rate was 3.92%. Id. at ¶¶ 21-22. Based on Angeion's estimate that the claims rate will be between 15 1% and 4% of the total class, Class Members will receive individual payments ranging from 16 approximately $10 to $39 per person. The court finds that the proposed settlement falls well
17 within the range of reasonableness, particularly given the robust injunctive relief that will benefit
18 the class, including Plaid's deletion of Class Members' data where the connected application did 19 not request the data and for users for whom Plaid no longer has valid means to authenticate with 20 the financial institution. Notably, Class Members did not incur any out-of-pocket expenses in 21 connection with Plaid's alleged wrongdoing. Moreover, following the court's order on Plaid's 22 motion to dismiss the CFAC, the sole remaining claim that authorizes statutory damages is the 23 CAPA claim. CAPA authorizes injunctive relief and recovery of "the greater of three times the 24 amount of actual damages or five thousand dollars ($5,000) per violation." Cal. Bus. & Prof.
25 Code § 22948.3(a)(2). Given the class size, the potential recovery of damages under the CAPA is 26 nearly half of a trillion dollars, a sum that is outside the realm of possibility of being awarded or 27 collected in this action. As discussed above, the CAPA is untested and the likelihood of Plaintiffs 28 prevailing on this claim is uncertain. The court finds that the $58 million offered in settlement in 1 this case represents a fair and adequate compromise.

2       Additionally, the size of the Settlement Fund compares favorably with other settlements
3 that have been approved in privacy cases in this district. See, e.g., In re LinkedIn User Privacy
4 Litig., 309 F.R.D. 573, 581, 588 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (granting final approval of $1.25 million 5 settlement where the class size was estimated to be 800,000, with each claimant receiving $14.81);
6 Perkins v. LinkedIn Corp., No. 13-cv-04303 LHK, 2016 WL 613255, at *2, 9 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 7 2016) (granting final approval of $13 million settlement where the class size was approximately 8 20.8 million; each claimant received approximately $20); Ebarle v. Lifelock, Inc., No. 15-CV-9 00258-HSG, 2016 WL 5076203, at *2, 5 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 20, 2016) (granting final approval of 10 $68 million settlement where class members who made claims received approximately $20 plus 11 the amount paid for service, and subclass members received either $19.48 or $39.48); In re Google
12 LLC St. View Elec. Commc'ns Litig., ---F. Supp. 3d---, No. 10-MD-02184-CRB, 2020 WL
13 1288377, at *11 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 18, 2020) (granting final approval of non-distributable $13 14 million settlement where the class size was 60 million); Campbell v. Facebook Inc., No. 13-CV-15 05996-PJH, 2017 WL 3581179, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 18, 2017), aff'd, 951 F.3d 1106 (9th Cir.
16 2020) (granting final approval of settlement providing for injunctive relief only and no monetary 17 relief).

18       Finally, there is no possibility of reversion to Plaid. In sum, the court concludes that this 19 factor weighs in favor of approval.

20                               c.       Stage of Proceedings

21       Class settlements are presumed fair when they are reached “following sufficient discovery 22 and genuine arms-length negotiation.” DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D. at 528; 4 Newberg at § 11.24.
23 “The extent of discovery [also] may be relevant in determining the adequacy of the parties’
24 knowledge of the case.” DIRECTV, 221 F.R.D. at 527 (quoting Manual for Complex Litigation, 25 Third § 30.42 (1995)). “A court is more likely to approve a settlement if most of the discovery is 26 completed because it suggests that the parties arrived at a compromise based on a full 27 understanding of the legal and factual issues surrounding the case.” Id. (quoting 5 Moore’s
28 Federal Practice, §23.85[2][e] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.)). However, “[i]n the context of class

1 action settlements, as long as the parties have sufficient information to make an informed decision
2 about settlement, ‘formal discovery is not a necessary ticket to the bargaining table.’” Wilson v.
3 Tesla, Inc., No. 17-cv-03763-JSC, 2019 WL 2929988, at *8 (N.D. Cal. July 8, 2019) (quoting 4 Linney v. Cellular Alaska P’ship, 151 F.3d 1234, 1239 (9th Cir. 1998)).

5 Plaintiffs state that they sought and received “extensive” discovery from Plaid through 6 formal written discovery requests as well as informal requests for documents, data, and other 7 information during settlement negotiations. Mot. 20; Kennedy Decl. ¶ 7. Plaid ultimately 8 produced over 12,000 pages of documents and responded to 57 document requests, 21 9 interrogatories, and 51 requests for admission. Kennedy Decl. ¶ 7. The documents produced by 10 Plaid included internal policies and procedures, agreements, correspondence, investigatory
11 materials, client lists, and detailed financial information. Id. Plaintiffs also commenced third-12 party discovery, having subpoenaed and started discussions with banks. Id.

13 Plaintiffs also state that they undertook a substantial investigation prior to the filing of the 14 first complaint in the five lawsuits. The investigation included reviewing materials including 15 videos, message board posts, web pages, submissions to government regulators, podcasts, 16 marketing materials, and articles, as well as engaging a subject matter consultant to analyze 17 various aspects of Plaid’s software. Id. at ¶ 4. Ultimately, Class Counsel states that they “had a 18 wealth of information at their disposal before entering into settlement negotiations,” which 19 allowed them to assess the strengths and weaknesses of Plaintiffs’ claims and balance the benefits
20 of settlement against the risks of further litigation. Id. at ¶ 19.

21 The court finds that the parties adequately investigated the claims and defenses in this case 22 and that the parties had enough information to make an informed decision about settlement.

23 d. Experience and Views of Counsel

24 Class Counsel’s experience is addressed in Section III.A.1. Additionally, Shawn Kennedy
25 of Herrera Kennedy LLP submitted a declaration in support of the motion for preliminary 26 approval. Kennedy states that he “and the other Class Counsel believe Plaid’s commitments [in 27 the proposed settlement] are substantial and will provide fair, reasonable, and adequate benefits to 28 the Class, while reducing the expenditure resources and eliminating the risk of uncertain litigation outcomes.” Kennedy Decl. ¶ 22.

The court finds that this factor weighs in favor of finding that the proposed settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable.

e. Government Participant

This factor is inapplicable because there is no government participant in this case. See Mendoza v. Hyundai Motor Co., Ltd, No. 15-cv-01685-BLF, 2017 WL 342059, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 23, 2017).

f. Reaction of Class Members

The reaction of the class members is best assessed at the final approval hearing since the court can look at how many class members submitted claim forms and objections. See Rodriguez v. W. Publ’g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 967 (9th Cir. 2009) (affirming approval of a class action settlement where there were 54 objections out of 376,301 notices sent). Therefore, this factor should not be considered in preliminary approval.

2. Rule 23(e) Factors

Rule 23(e) requires the court to consider whether:

(A) the class representatives and class counsel have adequately represented the class;

(B) the proposal was negotiated at arm’s length;

(C) the relief provided for the class is adequate, taking into account:

(i) the costs, risks, and delay of trial and appeal;

(ii) the effectiveness of any proposed method of distributing relief to the class, including the method of processing class-member claims;

(iii) the terms of any proposed award of attorney’s fees, including timing of payment; and

(iv) any agreement required to be identified under Rule 23(e)(3); and

(D) the proposal treats class members equitably relative to each other.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e).

a. Adequacy of Representation

1 In determining whether to approve a class action settlement, a court must consider whether 2 “the class representatives and class counsel have adequately represented the class.” Fed. R. Civ.
3 P. 23(e)(2)(A).

4 As noted in Section III.A.1., Plaintiffs’ interests are aligned with the interests of the Class
5 Members. Class Counsel states that Plaintiffs “willingly, constructively, and effectively 6 contributed to the prosecution of the claims on behalf of the Class.” Kennedy Decl. ¶ 25. They 7 participated in a vetting process undertaken by Class Counsel, stayed informed about the case,
8 preserved documents and ESI, responded to discovery requests, and responded to Class Counsel’s 9 requests for information. Id. Class Counsel’s experience is addressed in Section III.A.d. As 10 noted, Class Counsel are experienced and competent, which is another indication that Plaintiffs 11 have adequately represented the class. See In re Pac. Enters. Sec. Litig., 47 F.3d 373, 378 (9th 12 Cir. 1995) (“Parties represented by competent counsel are better positioned than courts to produce 13 a settlement that fairly reflects each party’s expected outcome in litigation.”). The court finds that 14 this factor is satisfied.

15 b. Non-Collusive Negotiations

16 The Ninth Circuit “put[s] a good deal of stock in the product of an arms-length, non-17 collusive, negotiated resolution” in approving a class action settlement. Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 18 965. Courts must “scrutinize agreements for ‘subtle signs that class counsel have allowed pursuit 19 of their own self-interests . . . to infect negotiations.’” Briseño, 998 F.3d at 1023 (quoting 20 Bluetooth, 654 F.3d at 947). These “Bluetooth factors” are (1) “when counsel receive a 21 disproportionate distribution of the settlement or when the class receives no monetary distribution 22 but class counsel are amply rewarded”; (2) when the payment of attorneys’ fees is “separate and 23 apart from class funds”; and (3) when the parties arrange for benefits that are not awarded to revert
24 to the defendants rather than being added to the class fund. Id. The Ninth Circuit recently 25 clarified that “district courts must apply the Bluetooth factors to scrutinize fee arrangements . . . to 26 determine if collusion may have led to class members being shortchanged” in both pre- and post-27 class certification proposed settlements. Briseño, 998 F.3d at 1025-26.

28 The first factor is not present here. Class Members may each claim a monetary

1 distribution from the Settlement Fund. As addressed further in Section III.B.2.c below, the 2 requested attorneys' fees appear to be within the range of a reasonable fee award. The court will 3 address the exact amount of fees to be awarded in the order for final approval. At this stage, 4 however, it does not appear that counsel will receive a disproportionate share of the settlement.

5 The second Bluetooth factor refers to a "clear sailing" arrangement providing for the 6 payment of attorneys' fees separate and apart from the class fund without objection by the 7 defendant. Such provisions "carr[y] the potential of enabling a defendant to pay class counsel
8 excessive fees and costs in exchange for counsel accepting an unfair settlement on behalf of the 9 class." Bluetooth, 654 F.3d at 947 (internal quotation marks omitted); see Briseño, 998 F.3d at 10 1026-27 ("[a] clear sailing provision signals the potential that a defendant agreed to pay class 11 counsel excessive fees in exchange for counsel accepting a lower amount for the class members.").
12 Here, the parties have agreed that any attorneys' fees will be paid from the Settlement Fund and 13 nothing prevents Plaid from objecting to the amount of fees that Class Counsel will request in its 14 motion for attorneys' fees and costs. Therefore, there is no "clear sailing" agreement.

15 There is no concern presented by the third factor, because unpaid funds will not revert to 16 Plaid; rather, such funds will go through a second distribution to Authorized Claimants. In the 17 event such distribution is not economically feasible, the funds will be distributed to cy pres
18 recipients.

19 In sum, none of the Bluetooth factors are present. The Settlement Agreement "appears to 20 be the product of serious, informed, non-collusive negotiations." In re Tableware Antitrust Litig., 21 484 F. Supp. 2d 1078, 1079-80 (N.D. Cal. 2007).

22 c. Adequate Relief

23 In considering whether class relief is adequate, a court must consider:

- 24 (i) the costs, risks, and delay of trial and appeal;
- 25 (ii) the effectiveness of any proposed method of distributing relief to 26 the class, including the method of processing class-member claims;
- 27 (iii) the terms of any proposed award of attorney's fees, including 28 timing of payment; and
- (iv) any agreement required to be identified under Rule 23(e)(3) . . .

1 Rule 23(e)(2)(C).

2 i. Costs, Risks, and Delay of Trial and Appeal

3 The cost and risk of continued litigation is discussed in Section III.B.1, above.

4 ii. Relief Distribution

5 Rule 23 requires the court to consider “the effectiveness of any proposed method of 6 distributing relief to the class, including the method of processing class-member claims.” Fed. R.
7 Civ. P. 23(e)(2)(C)(ii). “Adequate notice is critical to court approval of a class settlement under 8 Rule 23(e).” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1025. “[N]otice must be ‘reasonably calculated, under all the 9 circumstances, to apprise interested parties of the pendency of the action and afford them an 10 opportunity to present their objections.’” Tadepalli v. Uber Techs., Inc., No. 15-cv-04348-MEJ, 11 2016 WL 1622881, at *6 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 25, 2016) (quoting Mullane v. Cent. Hanover Bank & 12 Tr. Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950)).

13 Under the Settlement Agreement, notice will be provided to Class Members in numerous 14 ways, including by email to individuals for whom an email address is available and by postcard to 15 a physical mailing address for those for whom no email address is available. Weisbrot Decl. ¶¶
16 14-26. The administrator will also conduct a media campaign including internet banner 17 advertising, social media notice, a paid search campaign, sponsored class action website listings, 18 and social media engagement. Id. at ¶¶ 27-42. The notice program includes methods for trying 19 alternate means of contacting class members if an email or mail is returned as undeliverable. For 20 example, if mail is returned as undeliverable, then the administrator will use a skip trace search to 21 identify updated addresses. Id. at ¶¶ 19, 23-26. Additionally, the administrator will implement a 22 case-specific website and a toll-free hotline that is accessible 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
23 Id. at ¶¶ 43-44.

24 Weisbrot, the president of Angeion, states that the digital and social media portions of the 25 notice program are expected to reach 80.40% of the target audience with an average frequency of 26 3.62 times each, separate from the direct notice efforts, sponsored listings, engagement on social 27 media, dedicated website, and telephone line, and that it is the best notice practicable. Id. at ¶¶ 11, 28 46, 50. Weisbrot’s declaration lays out his experience in claims administration, including his

1 involvement in designing and implementing “hundreds of court-approved notice and 2 administration programs, including some of the largest and most complex notice plans in recent 3 history.” Id. at ¶ 2. He also submitted quotes from other court orders recognizing the 4 thoroughness of his work. Id. at ¶ 7, Ex. A.

5 As discussed above, Weisbrot estimates that the claims rate in this matter is likely to be 6 between 1% and 4%. Accordingly, the claims rate is projected to be between 980,000 claimants 7 and 3,920,000 claimants.

8 Another consideration is whether the claims process is burdensome to the Class Members.
9 The administrator will create a case-specific website where Class Members can view general
10 information about the settlement, review relevant court documents, and view dates and deadlines
11 pertinent to the settlement. The website will have a “Contact Us” page where Class Members can 12 send an email with questions to a dedicated email address. Class Members will be able to submit 13 a Claim Form directly via the website. Weisbrot Decl. ¶ 43. Class Members may also print a hard 14 copy of the claim form and mail it to the address listed on the claim form. See Settlement
15 Agreement ¶ 80. The court finds that the notice program is adequate as well as reasonably 16 calculated to reach class members, and the claims process is reasonable.

17 iii. Attorneys’ Fees

18 “District courts must be skeptical of some settlement agreements put before them because 19 they are presented with a bargain proffered for approval without benefit of an adversarial 20 investigation.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1021 (internal quotations and citations omitted). “These 21 concerns warrant special attention when the record suggests that settlement is driven by fees; that 22 is, when counsel receive a disproportionate distribution of the settlement, or when the class
23 receives no monetary distribution but class counsel are amply rewarded.” Id. “Where a settlement
24 produces a common fund for the benefit of the entire class, courts have discretion to employ either 25 the lodestar method or the percentage-of-recovery method.” Bluetooth, 654 F.3d at 942. The 26 benchmark for a reasonable fee award as a percentage of the common fund is 25%. Id. Courts 27 may also cross-check the amount by using both methods. See Mendoza v. Hyundai Motor Co.,
28 Ltd, No. 15-cv-01685-BLF, 2017 WL 342059, at *14 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 23, 2017).

In this case, Class Counsel will request an award of attorneys' fees of up to 25% of the Settlement Fund, which is $14,500,000, as well as reimbursement of actual expenses incurred by counsel. Settlement Agreement ¶ 108. The court does not award fees at the preliminary approval stage but notes that Class Counsel's anticipated request for 25% of the common fund is presumptively reasonable.

iv. Equitable Treatment of Class Members

The proposed settlement provides equal access to the Settlement Fund for all Class Members who submit Approved Claims. Class Counsel explained that each Class Member may submit one claim only, regardless of the numbers of apps that connected to their financial accounts via Plaid's software, because the data went to one place only, i.e., Plaid, and not to numerous entities. Therefore, the proposed settlement treats Class Members equitably.

3. Northern District Guidelines

The Northern District of California has issued procedural guidance for the settlement of class actions ("Guidelines"). To the extent the guidelines are not encompassed within the Churchill and Rule 23(e)(2) factors discussed above, the court will consider them, although they do not carry the weight of law.

a. Identity of Settlement Class

The Guidelines require the parties to state "any differences between the settlement class and the class proposed in the operative complaint and an explanation as to why the differences are appropriate in the instant case." Guideline § 1(a).

The CFAC defines the classes as follows:

Nationwide Class: All natural persons in the United States whose accounts at a financial institution were accessed by Plaid using login credentials obtained through Plaid's software incorporated in a mobile or web-based fintech app that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers, including without limitation users of Venmo, Square's Cash App, Coinbase, and Strike, from January 1, 2013 to the present.

California Class: All natural persons in California whose accounts at a financial institution were accessed by Plaid using login credentials obtained through Plaid's software incorporated in a mobile or web-based fintech app that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers, including without limitation users of Venmo, Square's Cash App, Coinbase, and Strike, from January 1, 2013 to the present.

CFAC ¶¶ 247, 248.

The Settlement Agreement proposes the following Settlement Class: "all natural persons who reside in the United States and who own or owned one or more Financial Accounts at the time such persons resided in the United States from January 1, 2013 to the date preliminary approval of the settlement is granted." Settlement Agreement ¶ 19. The Settlement Agreement defines "Financial Account" as "a financial institution account (1) that Plaid accessed using the user's login credentials and connected to a mobile or web-based fintech application that enables payments (including ACH payments) or other money transfers or (2) for which a user provided financial account login credentials to Plaid through Plaid Link." Id. at ¶ 32.

According to Class Counsel, the differences between the CFAC's proposed classes and the Settlement Class reflect their determination that 1) "the challenged aspects of Plaid's software and conduct apply to the users of a broader set of fintech apps and services than those enabling payments and money transfers" and 2) "the 'OAuth Process' and 'Managed OAuth Process' that Plaid employed with certain financial institutions at certain points in time should be excluded from the Class." Kennedy Decl. ¶ 23. Therefore, the Settlement Class is both broader and narrower than the CFAC's proposed classes: it includes users of more fintech apps than those listed in the CFAC's proposed classes and excludes users who connected to their accounts or provided their credentials using a different process than what was alleged in the CFAC. Id. The Settlement Class also eliminates the California class, reflecting Class Counsel's "determination . . . that Plaid's business practices justify application of CAPA to a nationwide class of app users." Mot. 30.

As to the first point, that the Settlement Class is broader than the CFAC's proposed classes, Class Counsel explained at the hearing that the class alleged in the CFAC focused on individuals whose accounts Plaid accessed in connection with fintech apps that enable payments and money transfers. In the course of discovery, Class Counsel learned that Plaid used the challenged software (Plaid Link) to allegedly improperly obtain login credentials for users of a broader set of fintech apps, including apps that enable users to budget and manage money and track investments. Additionally, Class Counsel broadened the Settlement Class to include individuals that Plaid allegedly improperly induced to provide login credentials, even if Plaid did not use the credentials to obtain users' data. Class Counsel further explained that revising the Settlement Class in these ways does not significantly enlarge the size of the class due to duplicate users; that is, many Class Members who use budgeting and investment apps also use payments and money transfer apps. Class Counsel estimated that there was a greater than 90% overlap between the two categories of users.

Ninth Circuit law supports the elimination of the California subclass in favor of a single nationwide class. "Subject to constitutional limitations and the forum state's choice-of-law rules, a court adjudicating a multistate class action is free to apply the substantive law of a single state to the entire class." In re Hyundai & Kia Fuel Econ. Litig., 926 F.3d at 561 (citations omitted). In this case, Plaid's principal place of business in San Francisco, California, CFAC ¶ 25, and their misconduct allegedly originated in California. "With such significant contacts between California and the claims asserted by the class," application of California law to a nationwide class in this case "would not be arbitrary or unfair to" Plaid, which does not object to such application. See, e.g., Chavez v. Blue Sky Natural Beverage Co., 268 F.R.D. 365, 379 (N.D. Cal. 2010); Mazza v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 666 F.3d 581, 589-590 (9th Cir. 2012) ("[u]nder California's choice of law rules, the class action proponent bears the initial burden to show that California has 'significant contact or significant aggregation of contacts' to the claims of each class member. Such a showing is necessary to ensure that application of California law is constitutional." (internal citations omitted)). In sum, the court finds that the differences in the class definitions are reasonable and warranted.

b. Release of Claims

The Guidelines require the court to look at "any differences between the claims to be released and the claims certified for class treatment and an explanation as to why the differences are appropriate in the instant case." Guideline § 1(d).

The Settlement Agreement provides that the Class Members will release the following:

[A]ny and all actions, causes of action, claims, demands, liabilities, obligations, damages (including, without limitation, punitive, exemplary and multiple damages), penalties, sanctions, losses, debts, contracts, agreements, attorneys' fees, costs, expenses, and rights of any nature and description whatsoever, whether based on federal, state, or local statutes, common law, regulations, rules or any other law of the United States or foreign jurisdiction, known or unknown, fixed or contingent, suspected or unsuspected, in law or in equity, arising from or related to allegations in the Action that were asserted or could have been asserted in the Action by the Releasing Parties against the Released Parties.

Settlement Agreement ¶ 45 (emphasis added).

The released claims differ from the claims asserted in the CFAC in that the release applies to claims "arising from or related to" the allegations in the CFAC or that "could have been asserted" in the action. "The Ninth Circuit allows federal courts to release not only those claims alleged in the complaint, but also claims 'based on the identical factual predicate as that underlying the claims in the settled class action.'" In re Anthem, Inc. Data Breach Litig., 327 F.R.D. 299, 327 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (quoting Hesse v. Sprint Corp., 598 F.3d 581, 590 (9th Cir. 2010)). Courts in this district have approved releases with similar language. Id. (collecting cases). The court finds that the release is not improperly broad. See, e.g., Custom LED, LLC v. eBay, Inc., No. 12-CV-00350-JST, 2013 WL 6114379, at *4, 7 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 20, 2013) (granting preliminary approval of release of claims "arising out of or relating in any way to any of the legal, factual, or other allegations made in the Action, or any legal theories that could have been raised based on the allegations of the Action.").

c. Settlement Administration

"In the motion for preliminary approval, the parties should identify the proposed settlement administrator, the settlement administrator selection process, how many settlement administrators submitted proposals, what methods of notice and claims payment were proposed, and the lead class counsel's firms' history of engagements with the settlement administrator over the last two years. The parties should also address the anticipated administrative costs, the reasonableness of those costs in relation to the value of the settlement, and who will pay the costs." Guideline § 2.

In his declaration, Kennedy explains the process by which Class Counsel selected Angeion as the administrator:

Class Counsel chose Angeion Group, LLC (“Angeion”) as the settlement administrator for this Action after a competitive selection process involving the solicitation of proposals from three well-known and experienced settlement administration firms. The choice of Angeion was driven by the experience of its principals, the sophisticated and tailored nature of its proposal (especially for reaching Class Members through a digital media campaign), and the overall cost-effectiveness of its proposal. . . . Class Counsel believes [Angeion] will adequately and professionally discharge its duties.

Kennedy Decl. ¶¶ 27-28.

These representations adequately describe the process by which Class Counsel selected Angeion.

d. Notice

“The parties should ensure that the class notice is easily understandable, taking into account any special concerns about the education level or language needs of the class members.” Guideline § 3. The Guidelines list certain information that should appear in the notice, such as (1) contact information for class counsel; (2) website address for the settlement site; and (3) information on how to access the case docket on PACER. In addition, “[t]he notice distribution plan should rely on U.S. mail, email, and/or social media as appropriate to achieve the best notice that is practicable under the circumstances, consistent with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(c)(2).” Guideline § 3. The notice process is outlined in further detail above.

The information required by Guideline § 3 is listed in the proposed long form notice. Settlement Agreement Ex. C. The email and postcard notices do not contain this information, but directs the recipient to the settlement website, which contains the required information. Based on its review of the class notices and the notice distribution plan, examined in more detail in Section III.B.2, above, the court finds that the class notice in this case is accessible and appropriate.

e. Opt-Outs

“The notice should instruct class members who wish to opt out of the settlement to send a letter, setting forth their name and information needed to be properly identified and to opt out of the settlement, to the settlement administrator and/or the person or entity designated to receive opt outs. It should require only the information needed to opt out of the settlement and no extraneous information. The notice should clearly advise class members of the deadline, methods to opt out,

1 and the consequences of opting out.” Guideline § 4.

2 The proposed long form notice contains all the instructions required by Guideline § 4, and 3 the other notices (e.g., email and postcard) refer the reader to the website, which contains the 4 required information. The court finds that the opt-out procedure available here is reasonable.

5 f. Objections

6 “The notice should instruct class members who wish to object to the settlement to send 7 their written objections only to the court. All objections will be scanned into the electronic case
8 docket and the parties will receive electronic notices of filings. The notice should make clear that 9 the court can only approve or deny the settlement and cannot change the terms of the settlement.
10 The notice should clearly advise class members of the deadline for submission of any objections.”
11 Guideline § 5.

12 The proposed long form notice has all the information required by Guideline § 5. Each of 13 the other notice forms has the objection date noted and refers the reader to the website to read the 14 requirements for objecting.

15 The objection process proposed in this case satisfies the requirements of Guideline § 5.

16 g. Incentive Awards

17 After the class is notified and has had the opportunity to object, Plaintiffs intend to request
18 incentive awards that do not exceed $5,000 for each of the Class Representatives. Settlement
19 Agreement ¶ 112. “The request of $5,000 is reasonable as that amount is the presumptive 20 incentive award in [the Northern District of California].” In re Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep Ecodiesel
21 Mktg., Sales Practices, & Prod. Liab. Litig., No. 17-md-02777-EMC, 2019 WL 536661, at *9 22 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 11, 2019). Thus, the incentive award requested is presumptively reasonable. The 23 court will evaluate any request for incentive awards at the time of the request.

24 h. Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”) Notice

25 “The parties should address whether CAFA notice is required and, if so, when it will be 26 given.” Guidelines § 10.

27 The Settlement Agreement provides that “Plaid will provide CAFA Notice of the 28 settlement to the appropriate federal and state officials not later than ten (10) calendar days after the Agreement is filed with the Court.” Settlement Agreement ¶ 98.

* * *

In sum, the court finds that preliminary approval is warranted in this case.
